

Top Grooms His Steed With Vacuum Cleaner

The Humane Society won't say anything to Mounted Patrolman Alex Brown, shown in the above picture, for treating his horse like a carpet. The horse is being cleaned with an electric vacuum cleaner in the hands of an official of the Air

Way Appliance Corp., 410 Madison-av.

The cleaner, a Toledo product and guaranteed to clean anything from a billboard to a chicken, makes Brown's horse as slick as a pig in silk. So good, in fact, that the department immediately purchased one of the cleaners.

—Mounted Officer Alex Brown says he has noticed the last week at least 20 autos passing thru Toledo, headed for the big knuckle quarrel in Jersey City.

WOUNDED HOLD-UP MAN; NOT EXPECTED TO LIVE

Charles Mallata, 21, bandit who was shot twice by Patrolman Brown last week, took a turn for the worse Monday morning and attendants at St. Vincent's hospital say he can live but a few hours.

He was shot after attempting to shoot and rob Brown.

PATROLMAN WOUNDED BY ARMED ADVERSARY

When Clarence Young, 21, of 300 City Park avenue, and Policeman Brown confronted each other with guns Friday night, the policeman was injured first.

With a bullet in his abdomen, he is in Toledo hospital.

FLEES FROM HOME; REPORTS BEATING

Frank Raabe, 9, who told police he ran away from the Miami Children's Home, was found by Patrolman Brown sleeping in a wagon near the Erie-st market. The boy ran away from the home on Monday and says that since that time he has been sleeping in wagons and boxes near the market.

Juvenile authorities, to whom the boy was turned over, are investigating his story.

TRAMPS, WHO INFEST a house at 112 South St. Clair street, which has been padlocked by federal authorities, are believed responsible for a fire in the basement of the building last night. Patrolman Arthur Brown discovered the blaze and notified fire officials. Loss was trivial.

A PECK OF ALLEGED whisky is the evidence held against William Gray, 50, Negro, 513 Lafayette street, who is held at central police station on a charge of violating the national prohibition act. Federal Agent Homer Yaryah with Patrolmen Brown, Ness and Orzechowski broke into the building on a federal warrant, arrested Gray and confiscated the peck basket laden with half-pints of alleged liquor.

AN EMPTY REVOLVER in the possession of Christ Thurman, 49, Negro, of 819 Hildebrand avenue, resulted in his arrest yesterday by Policeman A. Brown on the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

STATE AND CITY prohibition squads worked together again last night when two deputies and Patrolman Brown raided a place at 608 Washington street, confiscated 21 half pints of alleged whisky and arrested Henry Morgan, 24, 311 Illinois street, charged with having liquor in his possession.

STATE MARSHALS working out of Maumee, accompanied by Patrolman Brown of the city police, last night raided the home of John Vera, 2201 Consaul street. Vera was arrested on a charge of illegal possession of liquor.

A. C. MILLER, 415 Austin street, and six other men were arrested Saturday night on gambling charges. The arrests were made by Patrolmen Howard, Murphy, Manson, Talfeski, Brown and Jarzynski.

RENDERED INSENSIBLE by drinking bay rum, according to police, George H. Fisher, 42, Buffalo, was arrested on a charge of being drunk and disorderly yesterday by Patrolman Brown. Fisher was found lying in an alley near the police station.

Patrolman Arthur Brown.

IT was on July 22 that Police Chief Jennings called Patrolman Arthur Brown into his office and assigned him to Beat No. 10, with instructions to "cleanup."

This beat consists of the district bounded by Monroe-st, Swan Creek, the Maumee River and Erie-st, and constitutes one of Toledo's melting pots, with a number of police characters living within it.

So "Brownie's" assignment was not such an easy one. He has carried out his instructions to a "T," and has caused much comment among fellow patrolmen, his superiors and citizens who are acquainted with this district.

Since July 22 "Brownie" has brought in 184 prisoners, and during this period he was compelled to take a 10-day layoff because during a fight one of his prisoners bit off a piece of one of Brown's fingers.

Of the 184 arrests, most were for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Among them, too, were several suspects wanted for highway robbery, a few for bootlegging, a number for assault with intent to kill and some for less serious offenses.

Brown's debut in the district was somewhat unusual. Instead of heralding the advent of a new officer as "good news," those who came under his surveillance began to circulate the word that Brown was on the warpath.

Consequently, the new patrolman made enemies, and in carrying out his orders his life has been threatened many times, while a number of persons promised to "get his job."

Practically every morning since he started on his beat "Brownie" has been in the limelight in Police Court. Only a few mornings has he had less than 10 prisoners ready for the court's session.

And Brown's crusade goes merrily on, with dozens of arrests every day. Meanwhile, the district is wondering if Chief Jennings intends to keep Brown there forever.

BOY, 16, IS JAILED

A 16-year-old boy from Clarksburg, W. Va., was arrested by Patrolman Arthur Brown in the 400 block on Superior-st on Sunday night on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

WOMAN SEIZED

Patrolman Brown and State Officers Unkart and Jarzynski seized 105 gallons of alleged moonshine on Friday at the home of Mrs. Martha Wogozinski, 112 West Central-av. The woman was arrested for having liquor in possession.

PRISONER FOUND WITH STRIPS TORN FROM CELL BLOCK

What police believe may have been the preliminary steps toward a wholesale jail delivery in central police station Wednesday night were halted by Turnkeys Schroeder and Brown Wednesday afternoon.

Two large iron strips, used to brace the platform of the second tier cells, were found hidden in the main cell block which holds several prisoners awaiting court arraignment.

The strips were torn from their places by Nich Green, 18, of 652 Avondale avenue, who is being held on complaint of Patrolman McDowell that he is a burglary suspect.

Green was hiding one of the strips when he was discovered by the turnkeys. The strips were taken from Green and he was locked in a cell. A charge of malicious destruction of property was placed against him.

Turnkeys Brown and Schroeder believe that Green, possibly with other prisoners, planned to hide the strips until just before time to lock prisoners in their cells for the night. Then, the turnkeys believe, they planned on attacking the night turnkeys as they entered the cell block, thus opening the way for a jail delivery.

CHILDREN IN PERIL, AUTOIST JAILED

After he is said to have endangered the lives of a score of school children at Cherry and Page streets on Wednesday at 3:45 p. m., a chase of three miles thru the city streets and a fight with Traffic Patrolman Brown, Arthur Nusbaum, 30, of 615 Ashwood-av. was arrested, charged with being intoxicated while driving an auto and resisting an officer.

Brown was on duty at Page-st. He was holding up traffic on Cherry-st to allow a group of children to cross the street when it is alleged Nusbaum came along, driving his auto at 25 miles an hour. Nusbaum paid no attention to the traffic signal and drove his car directly toward the spot where the children were standing, it is charged. Brown yelled and the children scattered in every direction in time to escape being run down. Nusbaum did not stop.

The officer commandeered a passing auto and gave chase. Nusbaum is said to have speeded up when he discovered he was being pursued. At Moore and Walnut streets he narrowly missed hitting another machine. When he reached Moore and Elm streets, Nusbaum ran his car over the "mushroom standard" in the middle of the street, almost overturning the car.

He continued his flight and finally drove into an alley at the rear of his home. When Brown drove up Nusbaum is said to have taken a pair of pliers from his tool box and attempted to hit the policeman. He was overpowered.

BULLETIN

Members of the newly appointed hoodlum squad, acting under orders from Capt. George Timiney, early this morning "got" their first man at Cherry and Erie streets when they critically wounded a suspect sought here for the murder of two Cincinnati policemen. The man, who was taken to County hospital, was shot by Detectives Edward Meeker, Arthur Brown, John Michalak and Harry Manson after he had shot Patrolman Jay McGuire, who had been waiting for the suspect nearby. His name is said to be Zarewecki.

Officer McGuire, who was shot in the hip, was taken to St. Vincents' hospital, where his condition was not regarded as serious.

Zarewecki was accosted by Officer McGuire when walking up Cherry street with a woman companion. The suspect opened fire with a revolver which was handed him by the woman companion. Then the detectives came out of the Ansonia hotel and shot him. The woman escaped during the affray.

DETROIT MEN HELD FOR LIQUOR BOASTS

Two Arrested, Morphine Found by Police Hoodlum Squad.

Two Detroit men who have been boasting they are going to "take over the town's liquor business," were arrested by the police hoodlum squad today to explain their actions.

Detectives John Michalak, Frank Baumgartner and Arthur Brown picked up the men in an expensive sedan at Adams and 13th streets. The suspects have been paying rent for two apartments in that district.

The detectives found a box containing a quarter pound of morphine hidden in one of the apartments. Federal authorities will be asked to investigate.

2 ARRESTED IN CONNECTION WITH SLAYING

Nabbed for Questioning About Machine Gun Killing of Louise Bell Nov. 30.

Two alleged gangsters, one definitely known to police as a rival of Jackie Kennedy in speakeasy beer trade here, were arrested here Saturday afternoon for questioning in connection with the slaying of Louise Bell as she rode with Kennedy Nov. 30.

Both men have been sought since the murder. They were picked up at Monroe and Michigan streets by three members of Detective Inspector George Timiney's hoodlum squad, Detectives Frank Baumgartner, Arthur Brown and John Michalak.

Detective said that both suspects easily could recall exactly where they were on Nov. 30, 1932, but could not remember any place they had been as recently as March 20.

One suspect has operated beer-making plants here in the past and admitted that he was in the "trucking" business between Toledo and Monroe, and Wyandotte, Mich. He said he was in Pennsylvania on Nov. 30.

The other declared he operates a gas filling station here and that he recalled that he was just closing his station for the night when Miss Bell was slain by machine gun slugs as Kennedy waited for a traffic light at Superior and Jackson streets. Kennedy missed the rain of lead by inches.

Both men were booked on suspicion and are held for Inspector Timiney.

JAIL FORGERY SUSPECT

A 24-year-old Toledoan, who police say admitted forging a United States pension check, was arrested last night at Moore and Lagrange streets by Detectives John McCarthy, Arthur Brown and John Michalak.

LIQUOR PLANTS TAKEN IN RAIDS

Distribution Headquarters Are Raided; Still Taken; Retail Place Closed

Police made three more moves late Tuesday in their campaign to stop the flow of illegal beer and whisky in Toledo.

A tip that two youths have been using a garage at the rear of 1143 Woodland avenue recently for all-night operations revealed to Detectives Frank Baumgartner, Arthur Brown and John Michalak a plant for the distribution of moonshine whisky.

The detectives found eight five-gallon cans of whisky in an auto in the garage, a 10-gallon barrel of whisky and apparatus for the transfer of the liquor from one car to another. The two youths could not be found Wednesday.

The police liquor squad and a state agent arrested Samuel Stoykoff, 36, of 704 Lake street, for possession of a still and liquor Tuesday night after a raid revealed a 50-gallon still in his home, a gallon of whisky and 10 gallons of beer.

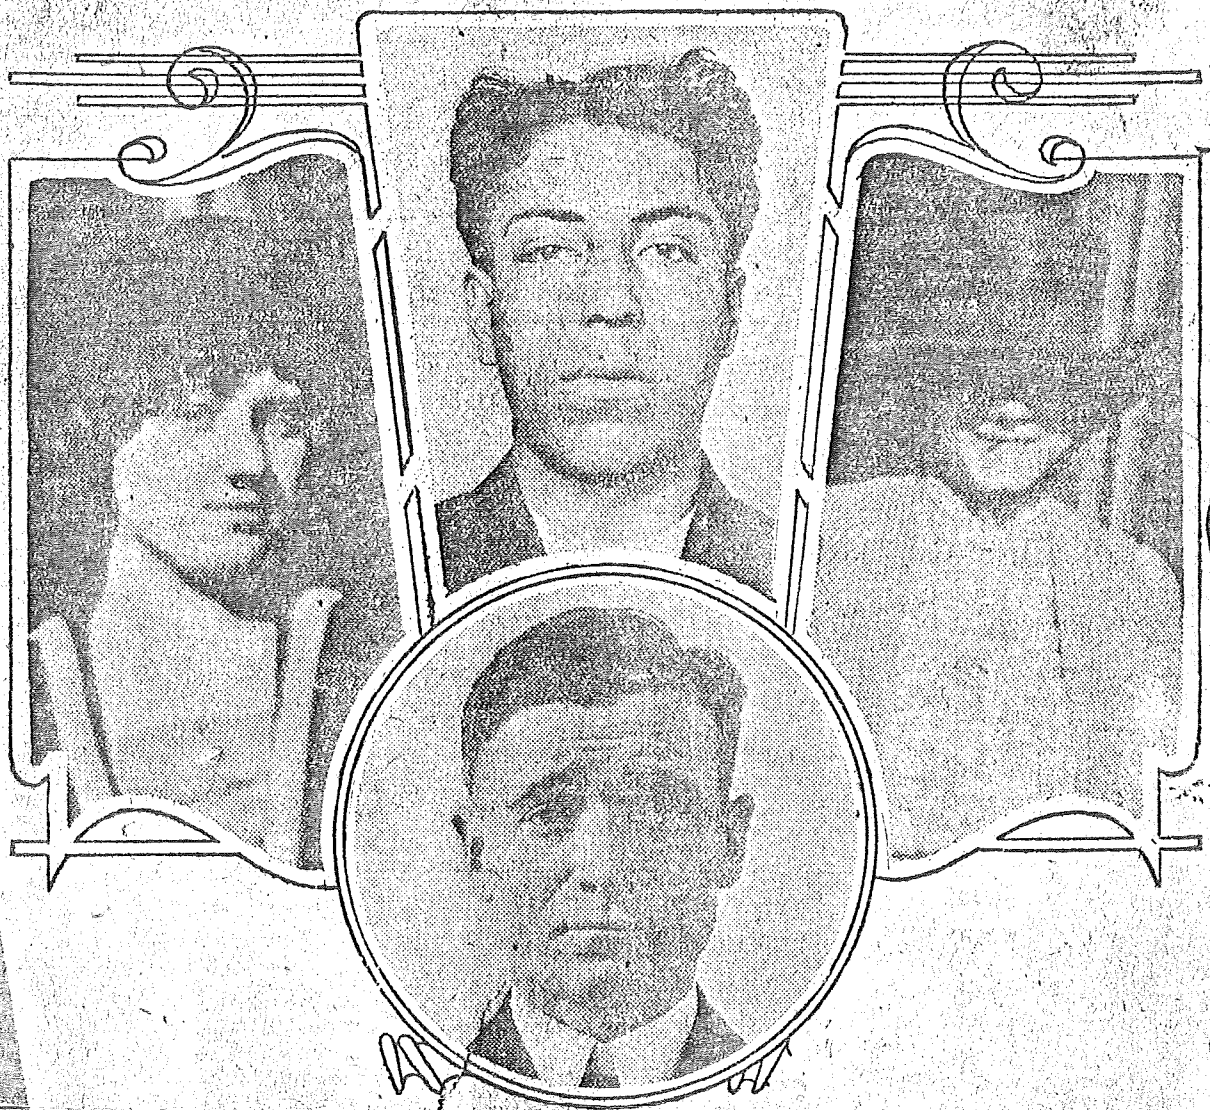

Patrolman William Tripp of the squad also reported the arrest of Miles Horseman, 47, of 1202 Front street, for possession of liquor and the confiscation of three quarts of whisky and 60 pints of beer.

Robbery Suspect Returned to Lima

Oren Wentworth, 25, Lima, was returned to Lima on a robbery charge Thursday by Chief of Police J. W. Cook and Inspector B. J. Roney of the Lima police department after he was captured in a Miami street raid, in which Detectives Arthur Brown and John Michalak participated.

Wentworth is accused of having broken into the Lima armory May 13 with Fred Wood and J. P. Johnson, both held in Lima, and having stolen five army automatics. Wentworth also was wanted by the Lima authorities for alleged participation in a stolen car plot and in the stick-up of a Lima barbeque stand Monday.

Principals in Franklin Avenue Shooting

Dennison is the member of the trio of gunmen who was shot to death after the raid at 2220 Franklin avenue Tuesday morning. Cowboy Hill, another member, is in Mercy hospital from wounds received in the fray. The two girls were found in the house at the time of the shooting. They are being detained in the Lagrange street station.

POLICE RECORDS OF THE ROBBERS

Long terms in reformatories and penitentiaries were served by Cowboy Hill and Archie Dennison, the bandits shot by police in the sensational Franklin-av gun battle on Tuesday morning. Both men are believed to have lived by means of the jimmy, "soup" and gun since 1908.

Cowboy Hill was known by the following names on police records, William Johnson, Arthur Hill, Louis Muszio, and Wilbert B. Meajus. He was also called "The Spaniard."

TAKEN AS BURGLAR.

He was first arrested in Toledo in January, 1908, charged with four burglaries and sentenced to Mansfield. The sentence was suspended, however. Three months later in April, he was found guilty of robbing Daniel Hager of the Lamson Bros. Co. The former Mansfield sentence was then enforced.

Hill was later paroled, and in October, 1909, was arrested in Cleveland for a $200 jewelry burglary committed in Buffalo. He drew a sentence of 18 months in Auburn for parole violation and burglary, drawing a five-year sentence. He escaped, but was recaptured and served the sentence. He is wanted for six safe-blowing in Ohio.

WAS A TOLEDO BOY.

Archie Dennison, whose real name is Archie Knorr, was a Toledoan. He went by the names of Dennison, Art Crowley and John Torton. He was first arrested in 1908 for burglary, but the evidence wasn't sufficient. In 1910 he was arrested for robbery

Find A Trophy In Bandits' Home

One of the interesting articles among the great pile of loot found in the Franklin-av place where the two bandits were shot on Tuesday morning was a silver loving cup to be given by the people of Algonac, Mich., to the winner of a motor boat race there on Labor Day. The cup was evidently stolen before the race. On the cup was this inscription:

"Algonac Citizens Trophy in Honor of Gar Wood and C. C. Smith. Twelve-mile handicap. Presented by..." The name of the winner of were able to get a clew to his whereabouts, as they never expected to find him in a residential district.

Police say that by some he was known as "The Rat."

On Tuesday morning plans for the police raid were completed. The entire day detective force, augmented by a few police, went to the house and surrounded it.

ONE ROBBER GIVES UP.

Led by Captain of Detectives O'Reilly, the rush squad entered the rear door when the outside guard had been carefully posted so as to command every door and window with shotguns.

O'Reilly, Detective Quinn and Detective Bill Culver, Quinn's partner, entered the door together. O'Reilly saw Joe Forrest first and said, "Don't bat an eye. Put up your hands."

"You know me. I'll go along," said Forest, raising his hands.

Just then Dennison, clad in a purple pajama coat, trousers and brown oxfords without socks, came out of a room. He had a bandage around his head, covering the wound inflicted by Motor Policeman Walter Kruse, in their battle several weeks ago.

FIRES SHOTGUN.

As he circled around a corner, Culver said, "Put up your hands and come along, Archie."

"Never," shouted Dennison, and he reached into his pocket which bulged with a .45 caliber automatic pistol. Culver fired his shotgun from the hip as Dennison dashed around the corner.

The charge rattled a door and some of the bullets hit Dennison in the mouth, knocking him down. He staggered to his feet and into the room where O'Reilly was holding Forest at revolver point.

GRAPPLES WITH BANDIT.

Just then Detective Quinn entered the room and grappled with Dennison as Archie tried to raise his gun on him.

There was a short struggle in which the men fell over a chair. As they fell, a shot was fired and Detective Quinn shouted to O'Reilly, "I'm shot, Jimmy, get him."

When O'Reilly turned around both men were on the floor and Dennison had wheeled his big gun around and pointed it at Quinn's chest.

"FOR GOD'S SAKE, GET HIM."

"For God's sake, get him, Jim," shouted Quinn, as Dennison's finger closed on the trigger.

O'Reilly spun around and placing his gun two inches from Dennison's head, fired.

The bandit fell back, instantly killed, his blood from the new wound

"POOR ARCHIE."

"Poor Archie," muttered one of them, "he was a good kid."

The women were loaded into the patrol wagon and taken to the station. Viola Cochran is believed to have been one of the girls associated with the auto gang that used pretty girls to lure men to secluded places to rob them.

Then the police commenced a systematic search of the "house of death." The first thing found was a set of burglar tools. Then a can of "soup" (nitroglycerin), sufficient to blow up almost an entire city block. Detectives Jack Connors took charge of this. Fuses and other equipment for scientific safe-crackings, such as blow torches, drills, etc., were found.

FIND COSTLY SILKS.

In the search of the closets, police discovered silk negligees and costly underclothing, evidently stolen from the gang to supply their women.

A trunk, which police handled gingerly, was taken to the station. It was believed to have contained more burglar tools and nitroglycerin.

Pictures of bank buildings were found in a sideboard. It is believed that the men made a serious business of bank robbing, getting plans and pictures and thoroughly rehearsing their plans of attack before they launched every venture.

A jar of cider was found in one room and near it a corresponding jar of pure alcohol.

A PERMANENT ABODE.

The detectives pointed to the luxury of the place and the evidence that the burglars intended to make it a permanent abode. They rented it five weeks ago, when the police search of the old hangouts of suspicious characters became too hot for them.

When Joe Forrest, 35, the member of the gang who made no resistance, was searched at the station he was found to have $614. In the pockets of Dennison a $50 bill was found.

KNOWN AS "SPANIARD".

Cowboy Bill was sometimes known as The "Spaniard." He is believed to have been one of the men who recently robbed the Ironville bank of more than $8000.

The men had been sought as robbers of banks in Tiffin, Carey and other places. The gang was regarded as one of the most dangerous that ever operated in this part of the country.

HAD MADE PACT.

All the men were desperate and according to word police had, they had entered into a pact to die fighting.

View Bullets Used in Beer War

Detectives John Michalak (left) and Arthur Brown are examining a bullet used by Wyandotte, Mich., beer racketeers who are suspected of attempting to "muscle in" on the racket in Toledo. The bullet was sent here by Detroit police to show Toledo police what they may have to contend with.

The missile is a .50 calibre bullet, five inches long over all. It is of the type used by airplanes during the World war against tanks. It is capable of penetrating half an inch through solid steel. The detectives were told it was specially made for firing from a machine gun.

The clip used to hold it in place in a belt of 50 bullets is shown in front of Detective Michalak's hand. In front of Detective Brown is a row of seven bullets, of which the larger ones are .45 calibre (the type ordinarily used for machine guns) and the smaller ones are .38 calibre (the type fired from the regular police revolvers.)

BURGLAR Suspect Held

A man with a new hat and new cane was arrested early today on suspicion in connection with the attempted safe robbery at the Toledo Hardware & Supply Co., 201 Vance street, Sunday night.

A hat and cane was left behind at the supply company when two men were frightened away. The suspect arrested limps, police said. He was arrested at Lagrange and Austin streets by Detectives John McCarthy, John Michalak, Arthur Brown and Claire Powers.

3 Youths Nabbed as Holdup Suspects

Three youths suspected of recent holdups were captured by Detectives Brown, Meeker and Michalak of the hoodlum squad, Thursday.

The officers said they stopped to question the youths, who are 17, 18 and 22, at Washington and Tenth streets, where they were parked in a stolen automobile. The suspects speeded to the Municipal garage in Erie street where they abandoned the machine. After a chase one of the suspects was captured. He then led the officers to a room in the 200 block in Tenth street where his companions were found.

GANG WARFARE FLARES AGAIN

2 Gunmen Shoot Youth; Bootlegging Ring Blamed.

Gang warfare broke out anew here Tuesday night when Freeman Brown, 19, of 364 Tecumseh street, was shot in the head, back and leg by two gunmen as he left a home in the 300 block in Belmont avenue. He is in a serious condition in County hospital.

A Sicilian bootlegging ring which was mentioned in the gang murders of John Incorvaia and "Little Augie" Annarino was blamed for the shooting.

Gun Battle Recounted

Dominick Cuttaia, 25, of Woodland avenue, brother-in-law of Incorvaia, appeared voluntarily at the Safety building Wednesday morning after Detectives Arthur Brown and John Michalak had sought him for questioning.

The detectives said that Cuttaia denied knowledge of the shooting Tuesday night, but gave them his version of the wounding Monday night of Lawrence James, colored, of 382 Woodland avenue, who was shot three times in the shoulder and once in the hip.

Cuttaia, the detectives reported, said that he had met James and Brown Monday night in a pool room at Division and Dorr streets, where the three played cards until James and Brown began an argument over the ownership of a radio. Cuttaia told the detectives that Brown and James continued the argument outside, and that a gun battle began when Brown shot at James.

Cuttaia is held as a suspicious person.

Retaliation Blamed

Brown told Detectives Brown and Michalak that the attack on him was in retaliation for the wounding of James. James also is in County hospital.

Freeman Brown said James was an employe of the bootlegging ring, which has been supplying colored cabarets and speakeasies. Monday night, Brown related, James and a leader of the liquor ring met him in a pool room and induced him to accompany them to the leader's home.

Assailants Flee

On the way, Brown said, the pair accused him of hijacking their liquor and a fight started. Brown declared that James tried to shoot him, but that he seized James' gun, shot him and fled.

Brown said that as he was leaving the porch of a Belmont avenue home Tuesday night, a dark sedan swerved to the curb and two men jumped out and shot him. He recognized one of his assailants, who escaped in the automobile.

MAYOR SEEKS SHOWDOWN IN

THREATENS SHAKEUP IN DISAPPEARANCE OF LICAVOLI REPORT

Another conference with Safety Director Albert Fall to straighten out the police department in its bungle along methods of handling gangster murderers was called by Mayor Thacher at noon Wednesday.

This time, the mayor indicated to reporters, a real shake-up probably will follow. He asserted that he intends to have a showdown, not only with a few members, but with the entire police division.

The mayor wants to know, among other things, what became of the report on an interview with Yonnie Licavoli, young gang leader, by two detectives from the time it was withheld a week ago until it turned up on the desk of Police Chief Louis Haas Tuesday afternoon.

Mayor Thacher not only is aroused by failure to make arrests in the gangster murder of Louise Bell, who was killed a week ago while riding in an automobile with Jack Kennedy, bootlegger, but has other reasons for criticism of the department, he said.

Detectives again visited the Licavoli home Wednesday but reported he was not there.

Thief Is Captured Before Complaint

Appearing at the Safety building last night to file a theft complaint, R. F. Welch, 2422 Cherry street, learned that the suspect already was under arrest.

The suspect, a 29-year-old man, is said by police to have admitted stealing a topcoat from Mr. Welch's parked auto. Detectives John Michalak, Arthur Brown and Frank Baumgardner arrested the man.

Has Clue in Slaying

After asserting that police have a line on Michigan beer-runners who murdered Miss Bell, Chief Haas said Wednesday that he also intends to find out why the report on the interview was delayed in reaching his desk.

The belated report by Detectives Arthur Brown and John Michalak, the chief said, cleared Licavoli of the shooting and should have been on his desk the day that it was made out. It passed through the hands of Detective Inspector Emmett Cairl, Mr. Haas said, and he intends to determine from Cairl what caused the delay.

In regard to the shooting of the girl at the Interurban station, the chief said, police have questioned a fictitious secret witness who gave them a clue to the killers. The gangsters are identified with a gang of beer runners working out of Michigan but are not members of the Licavoli mob, he asserted.

Arrest Orders Revoked

Tuesday afternoon Chief Haas issued orders to have Licavoli brought in for a statement. A short time later newspaper interviews with Licavoli, who is ill, appeared and the detectives' report incidentally turned up on the

8 TOLEDO POLICEMEN CALLED IN ZWICK CASE

Officers Who Captured Cincinnati Gunman To Testify in Murder Trial.

Eight Toledo policemen left for Cincinnati today to appear as witnesses at the trial of Bob Zwick, notorious Ohio gunman, in Cincinnati on charges of first degree murder.

They are Detective Capt. George Timiney, Detectives John Michalak, Chris Brennan, Arthur Brown, Edward Meeker, James Rafelski and Harry Manson and Patrolman Jay Maguire.

These policemen shot and captured Zwick here two months ago after he had shot Patrolman Maguire who had arrested him.

Bandits, Equipped With "Arsenal," Could Have Withstood Police Siege

THAT the bandits' refuge at 2220 Franklin-av, raided by police on Tuesday, was stocked to stand a siege, is shown by some of the firearms taken in the raid. Part of the collection is pictured above. It shows that the bandits were well equipped with ammunition. They had repeating rifles, shotguns, automatic pistols, and heavy caliber vests, silk underwear for men and women. Silk shirts and pajamas also were included. The small arsenal held in the house is believed to have been ready for a final desperate stand if tracked to their stronghold, altho the riot gun may have been taken to frighten residents of small villages where banks were robbed. The cup subscribed for by Algomac, Mich., citizens to be presented to Gar Wood, pilot of the famous Miss America, recently won the Harms boat racing was included

The large picture shows some of the bandits' fighting equipment captured by police. A sawed-off repeating shotgun and a repeating rifle are shown in the foreground. Scattered around are automatic pistols with their cartridge clips, and regular revolvers. Small-arm ammunition of all calibers was found.

Insert is the picture of the cup that was to be presented by Algomac, Mich., citizens to the winner of the Labor Day race there. It was stolen before it could be presented.

MAN PURSUED BY MOUNTED COPS

Several thousand Toledo folk and visiting Moose were thrilled on Wednesday shortly after noon when a number of policemen, including several mounted officers, staged an exciting chase thru the downtown streets.

The police were pursuing a shoplifter alleged to have stolen some goods from a downtown store. A companion of the shoplifter was arrested.

When the men ran out of the store Traffic Officer Glen Fels, at Adams and St. Clair streets, grabbed one of them. The other fled, running into the alley between St. Clair and Superior streets.

Other police were called. Mounted Patrolmen Brown, Woodward and Taylor took up the chase, urging their horses to full speed. The fugitive, however, escaped.

The man arrested by Officer Fels gave the name of Edward Williams, 27, salesman of the Paris Hotel. Four shirts are held as evidence against him.

City's Worst Flirt, Member of Finest

Joe is an incorrigible flirt, hopelessly and compellingly given to kissing women on the street. Even when he is chewing tobacco he sometimes kisses them as they stand on the corner. And he carries on his osculatory salutes under police protection, that's the worst of it. In fact, the police think the business has a humorous slant. Each day at 11, Joe lunches at the Secor.

And all of this is rather odd because Joe is a horse, the smartest animal on four legs in the Toledo police department, mounted Patrolman Arthur (Alley) Brown avows. He is Brown's mount.

Joe, 15 years old, has been consistently spoiled by the bluecoats since he joined the force in 1908.

When questioned by someone he knows Joe proves an awful liar. He brings little indictments against his master, which under certain conditions might be awkward. For instance, if you ask Joe point blank if he likes to kiss the ladies, he shakes his head vehemently, but if you ask him if Officer Brown likes the same sort of a venture he nods his head in a fashion so positive that it appears Joe must have watched his master off duty.

In politics he holds decided views. He spurns the suggestion that he is a Democrat with forceful shakes of the head, but appears pleased to admit that he would vote the Republican ticket.

Children at Jefferson school make a pet of Joe. He will stand perfectly quiet while they climb about his legs. He also has a nice equine taste for candy and food and the mounted men say he knows the chefs at all the hotel back doors in Toledo.

Brown will admit he might sell Joe for a million dollars, but that he wouldn't dare appear for service with the mounted squad the next day.

OFFICER SHOOTS BANDIT, VICTIM IS NEAR DEATH

Charles Mallata, Italian boy bandit, is dying in St. Vincent's hospital of bullet wounds received from a policeman's revolver Thursday evening, when with two others he attempted to force his way into the home of Mrs. E. L. Larson, Loiston apartments, Monroe and Sixteenth streets.

Mounted Patrolman Arthur Brown shot Mallata. He rooms in Mrs. Larsen's apartment.

Mallata and two others came to the Loiston apartments. One of the trio stayed downstairs, while the others proceeded to the Larsen apartment, when Brown, in answering to the call, was greeted with guns. He grappled with Mallata, whose gun was discharged, the bullet going wild. Brown then fired twice, one of the bullets hitting Mallata's arm.

Both men then fired at Brown, the bullets lodging in a wall. At the first shooting the guard on the door disappeared. Mallata and his partner fled to Sixteenth street and ran to Jefferson. Brown pursued. During the chase shots were exchanged. Brown finally brought Mallata down in a yard at Jefferson avenue and Sixteenth street.

STORIOUS GUN BY POLICE IN

Rookie Does Not Forget Manual Even Under Fire

Patrolman Jay Maguire Knew What to Do When
Big Test Came, So He Nabbed Dangerous
Gunman and Saved His Own Life.

BY W. H. MYLANDER

The police manual is one of the finest books in the world, and anybody who thinks it isn't will get an argument from Patrolman Jay Maguire.

Mr. Maguire, 26, had always wanted to be a policeman, even when he was playing football for Central high school. He was selected as all-city center on the mythical teams chosen by sports writers.

He couldn't get on the police department when he left school, so he took a job as a railroad clerk. Mr. Maguire was one of the proudest lads in the city in December, 1931, when appointed a patrolman. But 15 days later a new administration laid him off. Joy came again July 1, when he was reappointed.

Prepared for Big Test

If there is anything you want to know about the police manual, ask Patrolman Maguire. He was prepared, then, when his first big test came at 1 A. M. Sunday. In regulation style, he began his description of the experience with:

"I was patrolling my district when I saw a couple of squad cars stop—"

Maguire offered his services. Captain Timiney and Detective Manson told him they were looking for Robert Zwick, a tough character from Cincinnati.

"Pretty soon," the rookie continues his story, "a man and a woman came up. I had my gun ready—that's a police regulation, you know—and I told 'em to stick up their hands. The woman didn't, at first, but I made her raise her arms, too.

Finds No Gun

Toledoan, 2 Others Held in Perrysburg Blast; Fourth Man Sought.

Efforts will be made to have indictments returned by the Wood county grand jury Tuesday against three suspects held in the bombing of the Just Rite Cleaners' plant in Perrysburg last Thursday, Sheriff Bruce Pratt of Bowling Green said Monday.

A Toledo man, arrested in Cleveland after license numbers of his automobile were traced, made an effort to gain his freedom Monday on a writ of habeas corpus. It was made returnable Tuesday and the men may be indicted before that time. All are held on the charge of suspicion.

Arrested in Cleveland

The Toledoan was taken into custody in Cleveland Friday after Sheriff Pratt, with Arnold Isch, deputy, made a trip to that city. The others were arrested Sunday. It was said that all have been identified by secret witnesses as having been seen in Perrysburg on the
