COPS BUTT IN ON RING BATTLE IN EAST SIDE PLANT

The arrival of the police put a decided crimp in the championship aspirations of two promising battlers, Sunday. A battle was to have been staged in an asphalt plant at Paine ave. and the Wheeling tracks.

A ring had been marked off and all preparations were made to accommodate a crowd when the police were notified. The appearance of Sergeant Schrader, accompanied by Motor Jops Salhoff, Mead and Kingsley prevented the fight from being staged.

THE CITY TODAY

When W. C. Mills, 20, driver, was arrested by Motor Cops Mead and Salhoff Tuesday at North Twelfth st., and Woodruff ave., he confessed, cops say, that he had looted a house on Twenty-second st. of its lead pipe and chandeliers.

ASSAILANT IS CHEERFUL

Grins As Police Ask Why He Shot Two Women

"Why did she hang up on me?" asks Charles Purdy, 52, held at Central Police Station for wounding, perhaps fatally, two women on Monday afternoon at 11 S. 12th-st.

That was Purdy's answer to detectives' query why he had shot Mrs. Belle Fitzcharles and Mrs. Anna Eberhart, both 40 years old.

The women are in Toledo Hospital, both shot in the abdomen and probably will die.

TRIES TO KILL SELF.

After wounding the women, Purdy walked out of the house down 12th-st. to Monroe-st laughing heartily all the way.

Purdy entered the offices of Dr. W. T. Burke, Monroe and 13th streets, asked for the doctor and before Dr. Burke could ask him his business, Purdy whipped out a revolver, twisted it around his finger like a western movie terror, put the revolver to his temple and pulled the trigger. Dr. Burke knocked the gun from his hand altho it failed to discharge.

Disappointed at his failure to end his life, Purdy ran out of the front door onto Monroe-st.

GRINS AT QUESTIONERS.

"I'm a daisy," Purdy murmured with a grin when he was captured by City Detectives Salhoff and Tracy.

Purdy was turned over to Auto Patrolmen Rossman, Richter, Bonner and Wilson. He grinned sheepishly, like a boy caught in an act of kissing his sweetheart, when officers tried to question him.

Recovering consciousness at Toledo Hospital for a few moments on Monday night, Mrs. Eberhart smiled weakly at her husband, who sat anxiously by her bedside.

"How's my little darling?" she asked anxiously. "Did she get shot, too?"

TNB 4-15-1919

Assured her baby was safe, Mrs. Eberhart again lapsed into unconsciousness and seemed to sleep peacefully. Her condition is critical. She is the more seriously wounded of the two.

Purdy, a former roomer at the Fitzcharles home, separated from his wife three weeks ago after drinking heavily, returned on Monday afternoon looking for his wife.

"Where is she? You've robbed me of my wife!" shouted Purdy in the hallway. He was then arrested. Hearing the shouting, Mrs. Fitzcharles entered the hallway.

"Where's my wife? Why did you hang up on me?" he again screamed at Mrs. Fitzcharles.

CARRIED HER BABY.

Before Mrs. Fitzcharles could answer she had been shot thru the abdomen. Hearing the shot, Mrs. Eberhart, carrying her six months old baby, hurried to the scene.

"Come here, damn you, or I'll get you, too," Purdy yelled at her. Frightened and thinking of her baby's safety, she placed the infant behind her and started backing out of a door.

Purdy fired a second shot. Mrs. Eberhart fell screaming to the floor. Neighbors hearing the shooting notified police. Detectives and auto patrolmen were rushed to the shooting and surrounded the neighborhood in effort to apprehend Purdy.

No charge has been placed against Purdy. He is held on the vague "police charge" of suspicion.
