POLICE STRIKE POSSIBLE

The possibility that Toledo may see a strike of its patrolmen looms closer as negotiations between the Toledo Police Patrolmen's Association and the City Administration virtually collapsed on July 9th when the administration made an offer which was tantamount to a large wage cut. T.P.P.A. officials pointed out that elimination of longevity pay through a freeze, plus elimination of the cost-of-living escalator, would be less than sufficient to offset the city proposal of a two per cent increase per year over the next two years.

Shield interviews with individual rank and file patrolmen outside of the bargaining unit found nearly all patrolmen interviewed extremely incensed over the proposal made by the administration.

Nearly all of those interviewed said that they feel a strike is the only tool in which the city administration will recognize the seriousness of the demand by patrolmen for a decent contract.

Toledo Police Patrolmen's Association bargaining unit members were withholding comments at press time for a cost analysis to be completed which was expected to reveal the availability of funds to provide the basic requests by the T.P.P.A.

T.P.P.A. officials expected to announce the course of action to be followed in the stalemated negotiations following a meeting with the Dr. Marshal Berry, economist hired by the association to study availability of funds presently contained in the city budget.

Unprecedented

FBI Director Clarence Kelley says the nation is "beset by a crime wave of unprecedented dimension" and the public apparently doesn't care. "We lawmen," he said in a speech, "keep an eye on the horizon hopefully anticipating a thunderous outcry of public outrage to roll across the country." He said enforcement officers "are waiting for a cleansing tidal wave of indignation and lawful action to wash away much of the crime from our country. But we wait in vain. The time has come when citizens must stop talking about how terrible crime is and do something about it."

Douglas Committee To Air Union Grievances on McGrath

The first meeting of the Council committee chaired by Councilman Andy Douglas was scheduled for July 13th to hear charges brought by Toledo United Labor Committee representatives that Chief Corrin McGrath has injected anti-labor policies into the Toledo Police Department. The United Labor Committee is comprised of The Toledo Area AFL-CIO Council, Northwestern Ohio Building and Construction Trades Council, Public Employees Joint Council No. 46, United Auto Workers Region 2-B, and Toledo Port Council, Maritimes Trades Department.

Charges made by the union leadership include the accusation that Chief McGrath has been responsible for destroying the past relationship between labor and the department. One of the issues stems over the departmental request for an extremely high bond to be placed on a union official arrested on a relatively minor charge on a recent picket line, while many known and repeated felons are being released on their own recognizance.

Letters of protest of the departmental administration from the bulk of the United Labor Committee affiliates have been sent to city administration officials, motivating Councilman Douglas to call the special hearing.

Evidence and complaints by the group of labor organizations is to be presented in the hearing. The letters from the union groups emphasized that the actions under protest were made by direction of supervisory officers on the picket lines.

As We See It

By Ken Perry, President
Toledo Police
Patrolmen's Assn.

As I write this column, your negotiating team is awaiting another offer from the City Administration. We certainly hope for more than just a "few more tidbits to sweeten the pot." If the city is not seriously considering to talk above what has previously been negotiated, and presently a part of our contract, then as directed by the patrolmen, the present contract will be terminated which may result in serious ramifications for all concerned.

I have stated several times before that these negotiations are the most critical we have ever had. Many gains were made ten years ago when the patrolmen met the challenge; united, and rightfully earned a decent wage, and improved working conditions.

These improvements, I guarantee you, will be lost and the patrolmen in this city will be playing "catch-up" with industry and other occupations unless we stand strongly united.

Many of you know the aftermath of the industrial revolution provided the urge for SELF-DEFENSE by workers through organization. Thus, the labor movement began in 1792 when the shoemakers in Philadelphia formed a continuous association and were followed shortly thereafter by other skilled tradesmen such as carpenters and printers. These and other Unions were formed as a result of deplorable working conditions, long hours of work, and unfair wages.

The proud history of the labor movement shows us that the achievements that are to be made by the worker will need to be continually hard fought for. Very seldom, if ever, will an employer come forward and give improvements in a contract, unless the workers (the patrolmen) fight hard for what they want.

During these negotiations we have brought in the experts. Dr. William Hewitt, the professional negotiator, and Dr. Marshall Barry, the economic expert. Without your support all the money and time spent by these experts will be wasted.

1st woman lieutenant

FORT WORTH — Fort Worth Police have promoted a woman to the rank of lieutenant for the first time in the department's history.

Earline Moore earned her lieutenant's bar after she scored first on a recent written examination and second overall in promotional competition in a field of 37 candidates.

Lt. Moore is 38, married and has two daughters.

WHERE DO THE F.O.P. INTERESTS LIE?

By TOM PURCEL

The T.P.P.A. held two mass meetings on May 2, 1976 for the purpose of seeking a delay on the Sergeant's test which was subsequently given on June 6, 1976. Two of the policemen at the mass meeting were the F.O.P. President and a F.O.P. board member.

A motion was on the floor to seek an extension of the exam date to get the proposed exam validated by the court. It would also give the T.P.P.A. members in school a chance to study for their academic tests as well as the promotional exam since final exam week at T.U. began on June 6th.

The motion to extend the test passed by a slim margin, but both the F.O.P. officers voted to have the exam on the June 6th date. Civil Service apparently agreed with their viewpoint as they denied the T.P.P.A. request for extension. However, after the exam was given and the results posted, the F.O.P. President filed suit on June 29th against the test for alleged defects.

The format for this exam (and any exam) is controversial and open to speculation so the merits (or lack of same) will not be discussed here. The point is, the T.P.P.A. tried to make the exam valid and better for all concerned but the F.O.P. officers voted against it. This was their right, but why vote against trying to make a test valid and then take it to court to "straighten it out" after it is given? I would hate to think they filed suit after the results were published because the F.O.P. officers did not place well on the list.

The Lieutenant's exam had a similar format in the first two parts. But no suits attacking this exam have been filed at the time of this writing. Why? Could it be because the F.O.P. State Trustee is very high on the Lieutenant's exam? I would hate to think so.

Lastly, when the T.P.P.A. decides any major matter which affects their members future, we have well announced regular or special meetings and let the membership decide. Are F.O.P. members given this same consideration on major policy decisions? If their June meeting was four days before the test, who decided to sue? Did you get a chance to voice your opinion on this important issue?

MESSAGE TO PEACE OFFICERS

(Editor's Note — The following article is re-printed from The Police Association News)

By EDWARD H. LEVI

I want to take this opportunity, during observance of National Police Week, to discuss with you the problem of crime and the important role that is played by each of you in the criminal justice system.

Crime is an enormous and complex national problem. A high level of crime has an unsettling effect upon the important values and institutions upon which our society depends. Crime taints all it touches and breeds fear. It limits our freedom and mobility. It makes us doubt ourselves and doubt our ability to preserve the values upon which our civilization depends. Crime devastates its victims. It hurts us all even when it does not reach us directly. Sadly, crime continues to rise at an unacceptable rate. According to the Federal Bureau of Investigation latest figures on crime, released in March of this year, reported serious crime — murder, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny and auto theft — in 1975 was nine percent higher than in 1974. And these figures demonstrate only part of the problem. A study of unreported crime sponsored by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration showed that the level of crime in some cities was three to five times higher than the reported rate.

problem. As Law Enforcement officials, you, more than anyone else, represent the front line in combatting this problem. You hold a unique and difficult position of great responsibility to our society. It is by watching you that many of our citizens learn what kind of a country this is. They learn what laws are to be enforced, what determination we have, what kindnesses and decencies we honor as a people. As government has grown larger — both at the state and federal levels, rules and regulations have grown more complicated, as rights and duties have proliferated, government has come to be seen as an increasingly impersonal and remote force. Your action and direction bridge the gap between the government and the individual. By your conduct you represent the government as it affects people in their daily lives. Yours is a close relationship with the average citizen. And, I might add, where law enforcement is concerned, we are all average citizens because the law must act with a sense of fundamental equality.

Because you serve as the clearest intermediary between the government and the society, your role has a wide scope and your function are not easily defined.

Studies have shown that many policemen spend most of their working time on things other than crime control. A detailed study of a large city showed that police spent about two-thirds of their effort on social service and administrative work. I realize this kind of data might suggest there is something wrong with the way police and investigatory work is organized. But I venture to suggest the wider scope of the police functions not only reflects the fact that someone must perform the range of essential tasks police now perform, but it also reflects the judgement that these tasks are inherent and important to the intermediary and symbolic role of law enforcement. When people know that the purpose of police is to be helpful and to make the society work better for the individual, when people know that the rules are to be guides and not traps, a trust arises in them that is very important.

In stressing this wider aspect of your profession I have not forgotten the pressing nature of your central duties. The simple fact is that the prevalence of crime and our inability to deal with it is an alarming aspect of modern life from which many unfortunate consequences flow.

As law enforcement officers you are only one part of the mechanism by which criminals are brought to punishment, and as such you cannot alone make the criminal justice system effective. You can, however, do your jobs informed by an understanding of the general problem that afflicts the system of which you are a part. You can set priorities for enforcement so that the criminal law can have its maximum deterrent effect. You can organize your departments to function effectively, and by emphasizing the importance of swiftness and certainty you will broadcast the message that the criminal justice system means to do its job well. We need that message. If that message is given, I believe other agencies and institutions in our society will cease to be apathetic and will begin to do their part.

Your job as a professional is to cope with one of the greatest problems in our society. You stand where fear and cynicism now meet. But there is also a great trust waiting to be reawakened. By your conduct and skill — I am sure you will show the people of America that they may trust in the law and in you.

Letter to Editor

"A BLOW FOR IGNORANCE"

The Toledo Police Command Officers Association struck a real blow for ignorance in their successful efforts to block the requirement of a Bachelor's Degree for the rank of Captain or above. Even the requirement of a two year Associates Degree proved to be beyond their mental abilities. In their argument against these or any other educational requirements the TPCOA used the absurd argument that there is little correlation between education and the position of a command officer. This simple minded argument is no doubt applicable to all positions of responsibility in our society, from that of school teacher to heart surgeon, but if they had taken the same attitude our children would be taught by illiterates and witch doctors would still be performing operations. Only with the imposition of stringent educational standards will promotions be awarded on the basis of merit and knowledge rather than the present system of favoritism.

The message from our chief and his undereducated colleagues is clear, what really matters in our police division is not what is in one's head but rather what grows on it. While such attitudes prevail in this division we shall remain a second class, unprofessional organization in the public's eyes, and we shall continue to receive and deserve a salary less than that of truck drivers and other common laborers. Nevertheless with a Chief who studies police operations and procedures from Adam 12 and Disneyland rather than from real life situations we certainly deserve no better.

The American Dream . . . 200 Years —

America's 200th birthday party has come and gone . . . but a lasting impression has been made on all Americans by the fact that in spite of predictions of riots, mass destruction and chaos all Americans were interested in was to gather together in the largest party the world has ever known with the true American spirit of brotherhood prevailing at its best for the first time in the country's second century.

In Toledo, as over the nation, hundreds of thousands of residents, of all nationalities, faiths and origins gathered in masses of crowds and behaved in the best tradition of the country.

Only a very few incidents marred the nation's Bicentennial celebration, but out of the overall program came the realization that Americans really want and will work for peace . . . especially in their homeland.

Bitterness of Watergate and congressional sex scandals, combined with high cost of living and an extremely high rate of unemployment could not dampen what Americans wanted . . . to get together and just enjoy and live and celebrate the birth date of the greatest political system ever conceived.

Out of the great celebration came a greater revelation . . . that people of all ancestry and all age can be together in harmonious spirit without prejudice and malice. They came to enjoy and they did enjoy. In even greater tribute to the individual American was the fact that 99 per cent of the celebration was organized at the local level, in the cities and farmlands of this country.

The Bicentennial Fourth of July provided us with a renewed dedication that would have made our forefathers proud. As one old man watching the day-long festivities in Promenade Park was heard to remark, "If it is going to be this good I just may stick around for the 300th."

While war raged on in the Middle East, in Africa, in Ireland and the Far East, peace with a capital "P" was totally in evidence in this great land of ours. Never in its history has the American Flag been so prominent throughout the nation and Americans are once again leaning away from dissent and saying, "I am proud that I am an American."

Certainly this land is not without dissent, but when it comes down to changing the system, Americans are not willing to part with what they have. They made it clear on July 4th, 1976 that whatever may arise, they fully intend to live by our national creed for the right to "domestic tranquility and the pursuit of happiness . . ."

MORRISSEY'S CORNER

By Patrolman
Bob Morrissey

For some reason I have received a number of calls and letters requesting information on an article that I wrote several months ago about "Ole Willie."

Strange as it may seem, I cannot understand why this column has all of a sudden created such interest, however I would like to live up to my promise and let our readers go over the article again in its entirety.

WHO'S SPITTING THE BEER

Old Willie was sitting in his wooden chair looking out the second story window of the cheap hotel. It was a dark night. His eyes were focused on the multicolored neon lights in front of the numerous bars on the street. He thought to himself, "here I sit eighty years old and the only company I have are these four lonesome walls." It seemed just like yesterday, when he was a young man and he used to go into the taverns back in Tennessee and have all kinds of fun.

The more he sat there the more the lights seemed to beckon him to get out of the room and have some fun. He decided to go. He went to the dresser and took a clean flannel shirt. He got dressed and the next thing he knew he was walking down the bright street. He looked in a couple of the bars and it was very quiet. He wanted one where there were a lot of people and activity. A big bright light going off and on caught his eye. He went to the big bay window and cupped his eyes with his hands to get a good look.

There were numerous people sitting at the bar and the tables. This is what he was looking for. As he went inside and walked to a table the bartender yelled out, "What's it going to be, Pops?" "Bring me a big mug of beer." Willie sits down at a table and starts exploring the surroundings. At the bar were a couple of large men with silver metal helmets on their heads. At the tables were couples talking and listening to the juke box. The bartender brings him a glass of beer and puts it on the table in front of him. His fingers rub up and down the glass erasing the frosty moisture. His thoughts go back to his home town. It must be at least forty years since he sat in that bar back in the hills. He began smiling when he thought of how he used to take beer in his mouth and then squirt it through his teeth at the red hot potbellied stove in the middle of the room.

It really made a crackling, sizzling noise when it hit. The bartender used to come running from behind the bar and try to catch the one who did it. Willie was just too quick for him. He must of did this a hundred times and he never got caught. When he was at his best, he could hit an object twenty feet away.

Willie began thinking if he could still do it. His tongue went to the roof of his mouth and started counting teeth. Just two left. But they were the important ones. They were the front ones and this is where the beer would have to pass. Willie thought to himself. All I need is a good target. Looking at the bar and the two men with the silver helmets on, the one on the right reminded him of the potbellied stove back in Tennessee. He was built just like it. Willie then got his tongue behind the liquid and began forcing it behind his two front teeth. He took a good aim at the metal helmet. His upper lip rises and a solid stream of beer is on its way. Willie immediately brought the glass back to his lips and looked the other way. The stream of

SHERIFF'S AUXILIARY

Certificates of Achievement were awarded to members of the Lucas County Sheriff's Auxiliary on June 24, 1976 at the V.F.W. Hall, 5416 Summit Street, Toledo, Ohio for completion of training sessions on auxiliary duties over a nine month period.

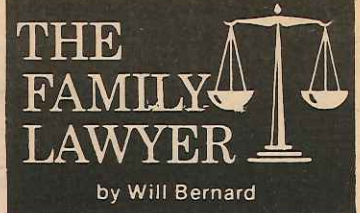

During nearly two years of operation, auxiliary patrols have logged over 44,000 miles and completed 105,800 man hours at little or no cost to the taxpayer. By means of CB Radio in their own private cars, they have alerted the sheriff department to emergencies and suspicious activities they observe while on patrol.

In addition to patrol, their duties range from crowd and traffic control, aiding stranded motorists, standing watch at the scene of recovery, assistance at the county jail, to the finding of lost children and the search for straying farm animals. Like the sheriff's road patrols, they disregard time and season to come to the aid of a citizen in distress.

The auxiliary is mostly self-supporting and welcomes the assistance of the community they serve. Some township officials say the auxiliary is the best thing to happen in the county for a long time and credit the sheriff department for its organization.

Sheriff Donald Hickey says "CITIZEN INVOLVEMENT AS AN AID TO LAW ENFORCEMENT COULD BE THE ULTIMATE ANSWER IN THE SEARCH FOR BETTER CRIME PREVENTION, AND THESE AUXILIARY PEOPLE ARE MAKING THEIR CONTRIBUTION TO THIS EFFORT."

Disorder in the Court

At a political meeting not long ago, the chairman, trying to hush a heckler, kept pounding his gavel on the podium. When that didn't work, he stepped over and pounded his gavel on the heckler.

Clearly, this method would not do in a court of law. But what measures can a judge take when a disruptive defendant simply won't be quiet?

In the most extreme situation, the judge may have the defendant bound and gagged. As Supreme Court Justice Douglas commented:

"A criminal trial, in the constitutional sense, cannot take place where the courtroom is a bedlam. A courtroom is a hallowed place where trials must proceed with dignity."

Of course, this would be a last resort. A less drastic step is to remove the defendant from the courtroom until he promises to behave. Although this does deprive him of the right to be present at his own trial, it is a right he himself has waived.

What the Supreme Court recommends for most situations is citing the defendant for criminal contempt. Every judge has the inherent power to do so, not for his personal vindication but to redeem the honor of the tribunal.

But even the contempt power is to be wielded with restraint. For example, according to American Bar Association guidelines, the judge should preferably take such action outside the presence of the jurors — to avoid prejudicing their minds against the defendant.

The best solution is to somehow persuade the defendant that everyone in the courtroom, including him, will be better off if the proceedings go ahead in an orderly manner. Judge Curtis Bok once made the point this way:

"In the whole history of law and order, the longest step forward was taken by primitive man when, as if by common consent, the tribe sat down in a circle and allowed only one man to speak at a time."

REVOLVER CLUB HIGHLIGHTS

BY BOB MATECKI, PRESIDENT

On August 28, the Toledo Police Revolver Club will be playing host to the London, Ontario Revolver Team.

An awards banquet will be held at the Lido Lanes. London expects to send 15-20 officers down to the match.

Many police officers were in attendance at the recent funeral of Kip Bowlis, who was a member of the Perrysburg Police Department. An excellent shooter, Kip will be missed by all.

We only hope that Perrysburg continues the matches, as they did a wonderful job. Mel Hood of the Perrysburg Department also is no longer in this area as Mel took another police job out of state as a Chief. (Good Luck.)

Many T.P.R.C. members have been attending matches in various cities. However results are not in my hands and therefore cannot be printed.

As many already know, Dave Perkins is the "Number One" shooter from T.P.D. Dave out-shot all others at the recent match in London and we hope he can keep up the good shooting, but with so many good shooters pushing him, only constant practice will keep him in the top position.

Hope to see everyone at the August 28 match.

Association for firearms instructors

SPRINGFIELD — The newly-formed National Association of Law Enforcement Firearms Instructors/(NALEFI) is seeking members among the nation's police departments in an effort to provide national standards in the proper use of firearms.

Long neglected by most departments, according to NALEFI, has been the proper use of firearms by police which is needed in order to maintain high proficiency and safety in the use of their service weapons.

NALEFI, officials argue correctly that the increase of violent crimes and the mounting death rate of law enforcement officers by those who use weapons makes it imperative that police be better prepared.

For those interested in NALEFI, write to Post Office Box 3845, Springfield, MA 01101.

38 Cal. Special MayBeDangerous

The preliminary results of a massive study of virtually all police handgun ammunition in the nation show that the most widely used police handgun round — the .38 caliber Special revolver cartridge with a low-velocity roundnose lead bullet — ranks low in stopping power and can cause serious injury if it ricochets and hits a bystander, the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration announced recently.

LEAA said the one-year, $100,000 study showed that the .44 caliber magnum 200 grain jacketed hollow-point bullet had the most stopping power — the potential to instantly disable an armed assailant. On a scale of 100, the stopping power of the .44 magnum was 54.9 while the tradi-

HARBOR PATROL

By Bob Matecki,
Ken Deck,
and Gary Hupp

July 4th thru the 10th marked the passing of safe boating week. The Toledo Harbor Patrol worked in conjunction with the Toledo Power Squadron in distributing federal, state and local boating laws throughout the various Toledo area Yacht Clubs and Marinas.

With the boating season in full swing and the Fourth of July now behind us, we have a chance to practice what we have learned from various safe boating classes held throughout the winter months and make safe boating week a safe boating season.

The fireworks display on the river went off better than expected with only one mishap on the river after the fireworks.

That involved seven people and a dog that went in the water after the boat capsized. The people escaped with no injuries. The people and the boat were taken to the C.G. station where they were given coffee.

The Toledo Harbor Patrol would like to extend a "thank you" to the following for an outstanding job of helping to patrol the downtown area.

Those involved were the Toledo based Coast Guard, the Coast Guard Bosdet Safety Team from Huron, Ohio, The Coast Guard Auxiliary, and the Ohio Division of Watercraft Marine Patrol.

We would also like to extend a "thank you" to all the boaters who helped make the Fourth of July of 1976 99 per cent accident free.

Once again, Thank You Boaters!

VOICE PRINTS ARE HERE

Law enforcement officials have long awaited the time when voice prints could be relied upon as commonly as fingerprints. Obscene phonecallers, telephone threats of all kinds and just plain psychos can now be traced by voiceprints. Voiceprint identification is based on the distinct voice each human being has. A voiceprint the same as fingerprint, cannot be disguised. The technique was developed by Bell Telephone Company technicians in the early 1940's. The voiceprint machine prints a zig-zagline on the graph similar to that recorded for earthquakes. The same word or sound uttered by the same individual is always identical to that of the graph.

Supreme Court Justice Michael Potoker has allowed the DA to tape record sample of the defendant's voice for comparison to a voiceprint made of an alleged drug dealer. Judge Potoker found over 4 dozen instances when voiceprints were admissible in court. The first being the Connecticut Police using them to prove innocent a man suspected of making death threats over the phone.

Colds, speaking with marbles in the mouth or pretending a foreign accent did not fool the machine. Popular TV impersonator Rich Little was easily picked from the actual voices of the people (John Wayne and Johnny Carson) he tried to fool the machine.

A detractor of the voiceprint, Henry Rothblatt (brother of re-

IAM loses

WRIGHT PATTERSON AFB — The International Association of Machinists were trounced in an election here by the International Brotherhood of Police Officers Federal Police sector.

The overwhelming 2 to 1 victory followed 14 years of IAM inactivity and absence of representation.

The organizing effort was spearheaded by national representative Kenneth Boudrow, who praised work by William Brands, Paul Colwell, John Rund and Richard Kerns.

O.P.P.A. REMAINS UNBEATEN FOR THIRD YEAR

By CHARLES E. McCAWLEY

On Thursday evening, July 1st the O.P.P.A. played the Oregon Fire Department in Donkey Softball.

It was a fun game, and we feel it turned out to be the most enjoyable game of the last three years with the final score 2 to 2.

The Firemen scored a run in the 1st inning but we came back in the third with two runs. The Firemen scored another run in the fifth. With two outs and bases loaded in the fifth Patrolman Joe McGreevy made a superb diving catch from the back of his donkey keeping the winning run from scoring.

In the last of the fifth, Patrolmen at bat, bases loaded, and with two outs, Jeff McCawley hit a hard ground ball which was speared by Fireman Bill Flanagan, forcing the last out at second base and ending the ball game.

Twice during the game when the bases were loaded both sides experienced a shortage of donkeys. Without reluctance or hesitation Patrolman Robeson and Fireman Ellis substituted as Beasts of Burden and carried their batting teammate, on all fours, to first base.

We wish to thank the Oregon

REWARD POSTED IN BANK ROBBERY

TOLEDO, OHIO — The Tri-County Reward Committee anti-crime federation of Toledo area financial institutions, recently offered a reward of up to $2,000 for information leading to the arrest of the subject who held up the Franklin Park Branch of the Mid-American National Bank at 9:50 a.m., Monday, June 14, 1976. The distribution of the reward is subject to the decision by the Tri-County Reward Committee.

The subject is described as a white male, late 30s, five-feet five inches tall, pudgy build with round, unshaven face, and medium short dark hair. He was last seen wearing a blue, long-sleeved jumpsuit with white stripes down the legs, and a light blue golf hat. The subject was armed with an automatic pistol. He should be considered extremely dangerous.

The reward is offered to the first person or group of persons who provide the information needed.

Persons with such knowledge should call either the Toledo Police Department detective bureau, 247-6103, or the Federal Bureau of Investigation, 243-6124. The identity of anyone furnishing information will be kept confidential.

Your Ohio Laws

by

Attorney General William J. Brown

The age-old warning "Let the Buyer Beware," is still applicable to today's modern marketplace. It is applicable and it is important — important, because each year consumers lose millions of dollars to merchants who use clever but deceptive and illegal sales practices.

Today's consumer cannot afford to be barraged continually with advertising, promises, and easy payment plans, without being cautious. Consumers are having a hard time stretching their dollars and they are beginning to ask questions; they are becoming skeptical shoppers and they are learning to recognize deception.

Recognizing deception is not always easy. Some of the most intelligent and knowledgeable attorneys who specialize in consumer law have been cheated out of their dollars by intelligent and knowledgeable con artists who specialize in breaking consumer laws.

Knowledge of consumer laws is important, but to avoid pitfalls, consumers also must use common sense. Ohio's consumer protection laws were designed to outlaw some of the most widely used and most commonly abused sales schemes.

One area which has proven to be a fertile ground for deception is advertising. Consumers who depend on advertising as a valuable source of marketing information have found—sometimes the hard way—that they cannot always believe what they read.

A commonly used sales gimmick is called "bait and switch" whereby a store will advertise a product at an appealing price as a lure to attract consumers into the store. Consumers who respond to the "bait" are then "switched" to a more expensive item. Often, the switch is made by telling consumers that the advertised product is not worth the money, not in stock, or sold out. Such a selling technique is unfair, deceptive and illegal.

Deceptive sales practices come in many disguises, including telling you that a product or service has a warranty when it does not; telling you that your furnace will blow up unless it is immediately repaired; or making you believe that you are getting a bargain when you are not. The list seems endless and the purpose is always the same—to separate you from your hard-earned money by tricking you into thinking you're getting more for your money than you are.

Whatever the disguise, your first line of defense against deception in the marketplace is to keep your ears and eyes opened. Be skeptical, ask questions and shop around. No law enforcement agency is as effective as a consumer who is willing to shop carefully. Buyers who do not settle for evasive answers and who find out all they can about a product or service before buying have far fewer problems than those who are silent and passive.

Consumers' second line of defense is having the courage to protest when they feel they have been cheated. It isn't enough to silently "chalk it up to experience" because dishonest businesses might also chalk up to experience the fact that their deceptive tactics work.

The first protest should be made to the seller of the unsatisfactory goods or services. Consumers should be specific about the problem and have all relevant details (names, dates, prices) on hand. Make the company aware of the problem and give it a chance to remedy the situation. If the seller will not help, contact the Consumer Frauds and Crimes Section of the Attorney General's office. This section depends on consumers as a most valuable source of information because unless and until it is known which businesses are operating against the law, nothing can be done about them.

Hopefully, consumers will continue to be cautious and to stand up for their rights under Ohio's consumer protection laws. As more people begin to recognize deception and take action against it, consumer fraud and deception will be drastically reduced and we will all enjoy and benefit from a free, just and competitive marketplace.

Congratulations!

We are pleased to announce that the Fort Wayne, Indiana, Patrolmen's Benevolent Association — which was formed with the assistance of the ICPA — has just received exclusive bargaining rights by the City of Fort Wayne, over the Fraternal Order of Police, which has represented the police officers of Fort Wayne for over 30 years. It has taken the officers of the new PBA over 10 grueling months to achieve this victory. Our congratulations to the Fort Wayne PBA!

Morrissey's Corner

beer falls short and goes into the man's left ear. The man almost falls off the bar stool. He is on his feet. His hand goes to his ear and wipes. He then brings it to his nose to smell it. He must of stood there for about five minutes looking for the one who did it. He again sits down. He and his friend are talking about it. Every once in a while he looks over his shoulder.

Willie almost chokes, but he does not laugh for fear of being exposed. Willie has another couple of beers and everything is back to tranquility. He figures his old talent has not died. As he looks around again, he sees a man sitting at a table talking to a girl. He notices the fat overlapping his collar on the back of his shirt. He looked at him and then back to the bar where the man was sitting with the silver helmet. Willie thought he would try for a double banger.

Willie again takes a large mouthful of beer. He primes his tongue. He raises his upper lip and a stream of beer is on its way, aimed at the back of the neck of the man sitting at the table. He quickly turns his head and shoots another stream at the man with the metal helmet. "Two direct hits." Both men are on their feet wiping the beer from their necks. They look at each other. The man with the helmet yells out at the other one, "So you're the wise guy. You like to play jokes, huh?" They were both running toward each other. Their hands were rolled up into fists. A lady jumps up and yells, "Wait a minute! I saw the whole thing. That little guy sitting there, who looks like a rabbit, has been spitting beer at you two."

Both men are looking at Willie. Willie was contemplating whether to run, but he knew them old legs would not carry him fast enough. The man with the helmet was now standing next to the table pointing his finger at him. "You old coot, I ought to knock them front teeth out, so you'll never do that again."

A beat officer walking outside heard the commotion. He immediately goes inside. Old Willie jumps up and stands behind the officer. The officer asks the man with the helmet on what happened. The man told him. The officer takes Willie from the bar and escorts him home. Willie looks up at the officer. "I swear, Officer, I'll never pull that stunt again!"

Time for change at Scotland Yard

In London, where the ordinary policemen do not carry guns!

An insane kidnapper tries to snatch Princess Ann, the daughter of Queen Elizabeth, and although her bodyguard is shot down the patrolman on the beat unhesitatingly charges the man with the loaded gun and is seriously wounded.

Two officers in a prowler car stop an automobile carrying two men and a woman and find themselves looking down the barrel of a weapon. One officer tackles the gunman, who tears loose and tries to escape. The other officer, painfully injured by kung fu sticks, manages to hang onto the man and woman until help arrives.

A detective is shot and a cop run down by the car of an escaping robbery gang. Another patrolman on the beat surprises a team of bank robbers and is shot.

Until now the only weapons of the Scotland Yard constable — the patrolman — have been his fists and his truncheon or club.

But there is a hint in the annual report of Police Commissioner Sir Robert Mark — in which the incidents above are singled out — that the famous theory of "opposite force," long the barrier to arming British police, has finally broken down.

"Opposite force" was the belief that if Scotland Yard did not carry weapons, neither would the criminals. But in his report, detailing a six per cent increase in serious crime in 1974, especially among younger offenders, Sir Robert said:

"In parallel with the general rise in the level of violent crime in recent years there has been an increasing tendency for the most dangerous criminals to be permanently armed in case of arrest by the police."

Some police on special details are known to be armed. These include officers assigned to protect embassies, to act as bodyguards for important visitors or to carry out hazardous duty against, for example, narcotics smugglers.

Public opinion has been prepared, already, not only by trigger-happy criminals but by Middle East and Irish extremists, for an extension of the use of guns.

FROM THE CHAPLAIN'S DESK
Father Al Ceranowski, Chaplain
Toledo Police Patrolmen's Association

On June 10, 1976, I received a letter from Bishop John A. Donovan. The Bishop informed me that I was transferred from being the Associate Pastor of St. Stephen's Church, Toledo, Ohio, to become the Pastor of St. Boniface Church, Oak Harbor, Ohio. My being transferred was no surprise, but, my being sent out of town was a surprise.

My first inclination was to resign as the Chaplain of the T.P.P.A. However, after talking with the president and later with the whole board, my decision was to remain on as Chaplain. It will be more difficult, but far from an impossible responsibility. In no way would I jeopardize the residency situation by resigning simply because I will be living out of town.

Voice Prints

tired Chief Joseph Rothblatt) is Chairman of the criminal law section of the New York State Trial Lawyers Association. Mr. Rothblatt pointed out that all the "expert voiceprint operators" work for the prosecution while the defendant is alone. He contends that in the final analysis the operators base their conclusions on their listening and not the voiceprint (spectograph).

My wish is to continue to serve as a special professional minister for the Toledo Patrolmen. Distance need not keep us apart.

My prayer is that no one will feel or go unserved. May God bless all of you.
Father Al Ceranowski

Despite Attorney Rothblatt's criticism, Judge Potoker ruled that the voiceprint identification has reached a standard of reliability that makes it acceptable for admissibility into evidence.

POLICE EDUCATION BILL

By TOM PURCEL
Chairman, T.P.P.A. Educational Committee

Representative Hartley is sponsoring House Bill #619 to provide an incentive for police officers to increase their education as well as recognize those officers that have already put forth the effort.

Mr. Hartley is in dire need of all our support in this very worthwhile endeavor. Please write today and express your intentions of support to Representative Hartley, House of Representatives, Columbus, Ohio, 43215.

Mr. Hartley's House Bill #619 contains the following proposals:

To amend section 124.491 and to enact section 124.492 of the Revised Code to require educational incentive pay increases for municipal police officers.

Sec. 124.492 — 124.44 TO 124.49 of the Revised Code.

Sec. 124.492. (A) A MUNICIPAL CORPORATION SHALL PROVIDE THE FOLLOWING EDUCATIONAL INCENTIVE PAY INCREASES TO THE BASE SALARIES OF POLICE OFFICERS WHO OBTAIN ANY OF THE FOLLOWING CREDITS OR DEGREES AT AN INSTITUTION OF HIGHER LEARNING EITHER WITHIN OR OUTSIDE THE STATE THAT IS ACCREDITED BY THE NORTH CENTRAL ACCREDITING ASSOCIATION AND THE OHIO BOARD OF REGENTS OR THE OHIO BOARD OF SCHOOL AND COLLEGE REGISTRATION, OR IS ACCREDITED BY ANOTHER RECOGNIZED REGIONAL ACCREDITING ASSOCIATION OR A BOARD OF SCHOOL AND COLLEGE REGISTRATION THAT EXISTS IN ANOTHER STATE:

(1) NINETY QUARTER HOUR CREDITS OR THEIR EQUIVALENT, OR AN ASSOCIATE DEGREE, FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS PER YEAR;

(2) ONE HUNDRED EIGHTY QUARTER HOUR CREDITS OR THEIR EQUIVALENT, OR A BACCALAUREATE DEGREE, ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS PER YEAR;

(3) FORTY-FIVE QUARTER HOUR CREDITS OR THEIR EQUIVALENT TOWARD A GRADUATE DEGREE, OR A MASTERS DEGREE, THREE HUNDRED DOLLARS PER YEAR.

SUCH DEGREES SHALL BE RELATED TO LAW ENFORCEMENT. UNDER THIS SECTION THE SALARY OF A POLICE OFFICER MAY BE INCREASED UP TO A TOTAL OF EIGHTEEN HUNDRED DOLLARS OVER HIS BASE SALARY BY EDUCATIONAL INCENTIVE PAY INCREASES.

(B) AN INCREASE IN SALARY UNDER THIS SECTION MAY RAISE THE TOTAL COMPENSATION OF A POLICE OFFICER ABOVE THE SALARY TO WHICH HE WOULD OTHERWISE BE ENTITLED BY HIS RANK AND YEARS OF SERVICE. AN INCREASE IN SALARY UNDER THIS SECTION SHALL NOT BE DEEMED A PROMOTION AND SHALL NOT INVOKE THE PROMOTION PROCEDURES OTHERWISE REQUIRED BY SECTION 124.44 OF THE REVISED CODE. IN ORDER TO RECEIVE AN EDUCATIONAL INCENTIVE PAY INCREASE AS PROVIDED FOR IN THIS SECTION, THE POLICE OFFICER MUST SUBMIT TO THE CHIEF OF POLICE AN OFFICIAL TRANSCRIPT OF THE CREDITS TAKEN OR THE DEGREE RECEIVED.

(C) A POLICE OFFICER WHO HAS SUCCESSFULLY COMPLETED ANY OF THE AMOUNTS OF CREDITS OR DEGREES IN DIVISION (A) OF THIS SECTION PRIOR TO THIS EMPLOYMENT WITH THE MUNICIPAL POLICE DEPARTMENT SHALL BE ENTITLED TO THE RESPECTIVE EDUCATIONAL INCENTIVE PAY INCREASE OR INCREASES WHEN THE OFFICER BEGINS HIS EMPLOYMENT.

Section 2. That existing section 124.491 of the Revised Code is hereby repealed.

Dear Inspector: As a computer data analyst, I have a good knowledge of the problems you encounter when classifying the file systems in your complex Records and Identification Bureau. I have heard that you don't possess the new I.B.M. Rapid Data Selector Computers or the ultra-modern Tape-Memory Storage Bank equipment. You also lack the latest Gridley Simplex 1-11A Multi-Micro Film Miniturizer Storage Programers. Without these instantaneous Multi-Selector Computers, how are you able to store, select, cross file, and distribute informational data on personal files, felony arrest records, N.C.I.C. stolen automobile license date, etc.? Signed Curious.

Dear Curious: It's really quite simple. All names beginning with 'A'; are placed in Shoe Box 'A', while names starting with 'B' are placed in Shoe Box 'B', all names beginning with 'C'.....

Dear Inspector: For years I've felt very self conscious, been called skinny and have had sand kicked in my face. Now, after completing a 32-week Charles Hercules Body-Building Course, all of that has changed. I have gained 100 pounds, my biceps measure 21", I can press 400 pounds, and I have a bone crushing hand shake. However, I still can't make it with the opposite sex. Can you advise me? P.S. Am enclosing a before/after photo of myself. Signed Rejuvenated.

Dear Rejuvenated:

Well, you certainly have changed. Your bull-like neck, barrel chest and massive thighs are very impressive. We passed the picture of yourself in your swim suit around our staff and frankly, none of us can understand why any guy wouldn't want to take out a sweet young girl like you.

Dear Inspector: I have this terrible feeling that I am a dog. Last week, I went to see a psychiatrist. When I told him about my problem, he told me to hop up on the couch. I stormed out of his office. He should know I'm not allowed on the furniture. Please advise me. Signed, Distempered.

Dear Distempered: My, but you do have a problem. Due to the sensitivity of your personal affliction, we are sending our reply to you in a plain manila envelope. We sympathize with you and understand your anxiety. Please stop worrying and don't be concerned by what people say to you. You will hear from us soon. P.S. Please don't bite the mailman.

Dear Inspector: While having lunch at the Country Club last evening, one of our guests mentioned that they had checked their ancestral background and found that their distant relatives were aboard the Mayflower. I am curious to know if you could look up my family tree and see if I have anything like this in my background. It would enhance my status at the Club and I would be eligible to hold a position of high office at my firm. Signed Social Climber.

the field of Hearldry spent six weeks delving into your background and you will be happy to hear that your great-great-great-great-uncle Horace did, in fact, make the historic trip from the old world to new America on the Mayflower. However, he spent most of the crossing chained to the oars.

Digital Paging Systems of Toledo

Digital Paging Systems of Toledo, Inc., which went on the air September 4, 1974, started in their original office in the Manhattan Bldg., and with their sudden growth, they moved to their present location in the Hillcrest Hotel.

The staff started with their present station manager, Marvin R. Taylor. Carol Van Tuinen was added in January, 1975 as a phone solicitor and was then promoted to sales.

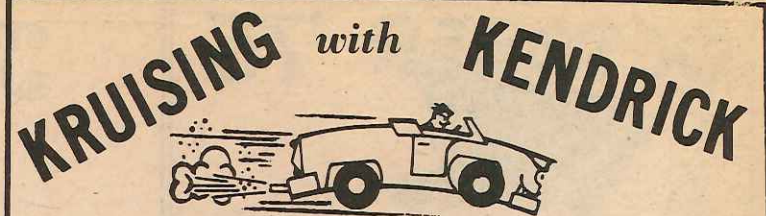

Included on the staff are Dolly Simmons and Carla Buck, who work in the office answering phones for service and also setting up appointments.

Digital Paging Systems of Toledo, Inc. is a part of Graphic Scanning out of New Jersey, with offices in New York, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Sacramento, and five companies in Florida.

The company started in Toledo with one system and now have three and are presently working on a fourth system which they hope to have in service in early 1977.

Anyone interested in seeing the Digital Paging Systems of Toledo, Inc. in operation should call Ms. Van Tuinen for an appointment at 241-7281 or stop in as coffee is always available.

By Patrolman Bill Kendrick

Ask any big game hunter which animal he would least like to face on even terms and he would likely say the Grizzly Bear of North America or the Cape Water Buffalo of North-East Africa. By sheer size and strength these two beasts would very well be top contenders for Nature's Bad Actor award. But man would not have to travel to distant places to see Nature's most ferocious species he would just look under a toadstool or a fallen leaf. In his corner, weighing in at one-eighth of an ounce, standing 1½ inches tall (minus tail), brandishing a pointed snout full of whiskers and a mouth full of needle sharp teeth, is the Pennyweight Champion of the World, Suncus et Ruscus. The name may not strike terror into the hearts of many brave hunters, but the familiar name, shrew, may bring chuckles. Although most of us would not recognize one of these furry creatures or probably mistake it for a mouse, it is nevertheless a well established member of the animal world. Scattered throughout the World, it ranges from the tropics, deserts, and even the Arctic regions. The shrew numbers 32 species alone in North America. Its coat will vary from a tan, a gray to an almost black. Their habitat is the forests, the grassy areas, and unlike the mouse, a species is adapted to swimming and lives along water areas. The shrew begins life with multiple births that range from 6 to 8 brothers and sisters coming into the world naked and the size of a honey bee. These pink wiggling and wrinkled newcomers are suckled by the female for about 4 weeks at which time she kicks them out into the cruel world so she can make room for a new batch. At this stage, the young shrews begin to prey upon small insects, worms, and anything that will crawl, fly, walk, or swim.

It would appear that the main goal of the shrew is to fill its stomach. It eats constantly, consuming three times its weight every 24 hours. If he would not pursue this all encompassing activity, he would die. The very act of eating is in itself a delightful pleasure. While devouring its prey, the shrew shakes with excitement as it gobbles down its food with little time for the customary mastication. His metabolic rate is twice that of man's. This rapid acceleration causes him to grow old before his time, for the average life expectancy of a shrew is 12 to 14 months. In order to attain that life span he must be able to avoid his natural enemies.

As previously stated, the shrew has been inhabiting the North American continent for some time in great profusion. But it was not until 1820 that wildlife artist and naturalist Titan R. Peals first came upon a short-tailed shrew while trekking along the Missouri River. He had build a wolf pitfall the preceeding day and upon examining it, found only a tiny mouselike creature scurrying about in the bottom. Subsequent studying of this little giant revealed that this particular species possessed 32 black tipped teeth that were used to inject a neuro-toxic venom that was produced in the salivary glands. This venom was the type similar to that found in the Indian Cobra. By injecting it into small animals, the victim soon became paralyzed and breathing was stopped.

How does this peanut of the animal world fit into the Master Plan. If the Great Blue Whale is the largest of mammals at a length of 100 feet and a weight of 150 tons, then the shrew is surely the World's smallest mammal with its postage scale weight. Although not impressive in stature, it is very beneficial to man in its unrelenting battle to fill its stomach with many of the destructive insects that would surely feast upon the crops that we so depend upon.

How Times Do Change!!

Why is it that contract negotiations always seem to change to bring out a cry of poverty from the City Administration? Just months ago when Mayor Harry Kessler was running for re-election his platform was based on how great the financial shape of Toledo is in under his leadership. Suddenly, with Police Patrolmen's Association negotiators and other city employees seeking much-needed increases, Toledo is in the midst of a financial crisis. Like the song says, 'What a difference a day makes' or maybe a few months!!

 tional 158 grain .38 caliber bullet was 4.5.

The study also found that velocity was generally about 25 percent less than advertised. Ammunition manufacturers measure velocity of a bullet fired from a test barrel, while the study measured velocity of a bullet fired which permits gas leakage.

To arrive at these conclusions, researchers used "The Computer Man" to assess the vulnerability of a human target. The Computer Man was designed by the U.S. Army's Ballistic Research Laboratories, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland.

The Computer Man is composed of thousands of one-quarter cubic-inch cells in which all body tissues are ranked relative to lethality. This enabled the researchers to determine the relative importance of a given shot to the overall survivability of a man. It also helped them to determine human vulnerability.

Mr. Velde noted that the "FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin," a monthly magazine published by the FBI, discussed police handgun ammunition in two articles written by researchers at the Southwestern Institute of Forensic Science, Dallas, Texas.

July, 1976

The Police Shield

The Institute has a continuing program to evaluate the wounding effectiveness of different calibers and types of ammunition, the researchers said. The goal of the program is to provide to law enforcement organizations and individual police officers information on the different calibers and types of commercially available cartridges used by law enforcement organizations or considered for police use.

"LEAA hopes the results of this study will be beneficial to the study being done by members of the Institute and to other researchers working in this area," Mr. Velde said.

Stopping power was determined by tests in which an electronic model of a person dubbed "The Computer Man" was "shot" hundreds of thousands of times with electronic bullets that matched their real-life counterparts and then a determination was made of the lethality of the "wound."

"The purpose of this study is to give law enforcement agencies factual information to help them select handgun ammunition," said Richard W. Velde, LEAA Administrator. "The study not only considered the characteristics of the ammunition, but also the safety factors relating to bystanders when certain types of ammunition are used."

Mr. Velde noted that in the past such things as personal preferences, tradition, department or local government policy, advertised performance, public concern, and various non-scientific studies have figured in the selection of ammunition for law enforcement agencies.

"This study was not conducted to show that previous studies and concerns were incorrect, but to bring together all available information to permit an objective evaluation of ammunition," he said.

The study of thousands of cartridges produced by most United States manufacturers was conducted for LEAA by the Law Enforcement Standards Laboratory of the National Bureau of Standards.

The study analyzed the ballistic characteristics of ammunition for such handguns as the 9 millimeter, .38 caliber Special, .357 magnum, .41 magnum, .44 magnum, and .45 automatic — which represent 99 per cent of police handgun ammunition now in use. Such calibers as the .22, .25, and .32 were not studied because they were not considered police service ammunition.

Drive Open To Unionize All Nation's Police

Editors Note: The following article is re-printed from "Inside Labor" and was authored by Mr. Victor Ruesek.

BAL HARBOUR, Fla. — Even under the palm trees a policemen lot is not a happy one, they say. Actually I went up the road on a more romantic mission to see how some of the Mafiosi live in a fashion to which they've become quite easily accustomed. I was diverted when I learned there's considerable police union sentiment in nearby counties; the Federal Mediation Service fellows quietly are trying to prevent cops job action in 12 Florida communities.

And the big International Conference of Police Associations (ICPA) plans to send its organization down in some 60 days.

This ICPA is quite a labor federation unto itself. It's as independent of labor's high command meeting here as are the miners, the auto workers and the Teamsters. But the ICPA does co-operate closely with the AFL-CIO's Public Employee Department — especially the fire fighters.

When I queried the president about strikes, he didn't say yes, nor did he say no to job action. There's little doubt that actual police stoppages — not the blue flu or the slow motion ticket issuing, traffic stalling gimmicks but the real strike weapon — will be used as the police unionization drive sweeps across the land.

ASSOCIATION LEADER, 6-foot-4, 270-pound ex-New York City radio car patrolman Ed Kiernan, thinks of himself as a labor leader "as much in the labor movement as any of them with you now."

Kiernan, ex-president of the Big Apple's Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, could play his old street-cruising self in some movie. But don't get the flatfoot image. He's on the hustings much of the time, skillfully organizing as would any field "rep" of the hard hats or the needle trades. And he's one of the best legislative lobbyists in the business.

When I spoke with him the other day he had just returned from five communities in North Carolina, including Greensboro and High Point. He was putting the final touches on an agreement in the Las Cruces, N.M., police strike. This had triggered a wide municipal walk-out, including fire fighters and sanitation men, and had brought in Jerry Wurf's municipal employees organizers. They signed up 900 city workers there.

To picture the ICPA, view it as a sort of AFL-CIO for its 180,000 cops, members of their own Benevolent Associations. Its objective is to sign up all PBAs, or organizing locals, to cover the nation's 450,000 policemen, sheriffs et al.

Kiernan has tough competition — the Teamsters and several national AFL-CIO unions. The Teamsters are heavy in police ranks in Michigan, South Dakota and even in a string of California cities. The Teamsters rent themselves out as collective bargaining specialists — it's reported that at least one Benevolent Association has paid as much as $190,000 to have the Brotherhood's table-pounders bargain for the cops.

BUT THERE are as many small patrolmen's associations across the land which can't afford anywhere near that, so Kiernan now provides collective bargaining counsel for a low fee. And he will come to it personally. He will pound the table himself across from the mayor or city manager. Or even the police chief.

It's Kiernan who turned the 20-year-old ICPA into a labor union which reaches from Naples, across the state here, to San Francisco where the cops did strike last winter.

The cops now picket like plumbers. About a year ago, patrolmen picketed nine roads leading into Pleasantville, N.J., for a day to prove they could isolate a community. They did. Teamsters and other AFL-CIO unionists refused to cross the lines. And last September, some 2000 former New York cops joined by firemen who had been slashed from the payroll, marched on the nation's Capitol. And they worked the corridors as would any machinists or laborers' lobbyists.

The cops associations are going the whole distance. Kiernan says a recent California police and sheriffs "union" conference at Lake Tahoe, Nev., whopped it up for political action. A cops' COPE could have impact, especially in New York City, where the ICPA's affiliate, the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, has some 25,000 dues checked-off members. Their leader is husky big Ken McFeeley who is an ICPA vice president.

First ICPA vice president Jack Hawkonsen speaks for the large Chicago patrolmen's organization. What do they all want as they build their union? "We're part of the labor field," says Kiernan. "We are committed to a no-strike position. But that is predicated on the proposition that we get collective bargaining with binding arbitration. If they withhold that, we'll go in for strikes and job action."

"We want salaries commensurate with our work; civil liberties for police as well as the criminals; good grievance procedures; a federal collective bargaining law governing public employees and that bill granting $50,000 in federal money to survivors of officers killed in the line of duty." Looks like the union button has caught up with the badge.

tougher on crime

NEW YORK — The attitude of Americans has shifted "in favor of punishment" and the nation began the new year with more people in its prisons than ever before.

Nearly a quarter of a million persons are now behind bars in the United States, according to a survey published by Corrections Magazine in its current issue. The figure offers a contrast to a trend since 1962 of sending fewer prisoners to jail, the publication said.

Dr. Lloyd Ohlin, professor of criminology at Harvard Law School, said in a comment on the survey, "What we're seeing is a massive counter-attack" against programs like probation that let offenders stay in the community. The climate has shifted in favor of punishment.
